Cathedral Resembles Grass Hill. Of the world's cathedrals, probably the most curious is that which crowns a hill in Uganda. In appearance it resembles nothing so much as a mountain of grass, although on closer inspection one is able to see that mud and wood have been extensively employed. The structure can accommodate 4,000 people.

Bitter Orange Perfume.

The basis of many of the choicest perfumes is oil of petit-grain. This is produced from the leaves of a small bitter orange that grows in vast quantities in Paraguay. The leaves are boiled, the vapor distilled and the oil skimmed off. The peel of this same orange is the main ingredient of curacao.
